

SPAIN: ALPUJARRAS – MOORISH HILLS & SIERRA NEVADA8-day / 7-night SELF-GUIDED inn-to-inn walk in southern Spain via GranadaVALUE TOUR

In southern Spain, on the south-western slopes of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, the area known as “las Alpujarras” is a wild and enchanting destination for a walking holiday. The region reflects its Moorish origins, recalling times when groups of “moros” inhabited these hills resisting attacks by Christians. They lived here in Al-Busherat, the grasslands, right up to the 17th Century and with this fascinating historical context, the Alpujarras’ high elevation makes for an ideal alpine walking and cultural experience. In the Mediterranean climate olive orchards, orange and lemon groves, almond trees, figs and grapes thrive. Walks are rewarded with dramatic views of the typical whitewashed villages and terraced fields with irrigation channels from the Moorish era.

Suggested itinerary:

Day 1 Arrive Capileira

Arrive in Capileira, situated at an elevation of 1436 metres. From Granada there are three daily coach services to Capileira, taking 2½ hours, or ask about private transfer at extra cost. This, the main village of the Alpujarras, still displays its charming history as a former Moorish settlement: white-washed houses clinging to the hillside, tiny squares with fountains, and a network of steep, narrow laneways.

Day 2 Through Río Poqueira Valley

walking @ 10km, 5½ hours

A circular walk through the Río Poqueira Valley from Capileira via the sleepy village of Bubion to white-washed Pampaneira, passing ancient threshing circles as you walk among fields. Some steep ascents and descents.

Day 3 Capileira to Pórtugos

walking @ 12km, 5 hours

Walk from Capileira through tiny picturesque villages and varied landscapes to Pórtugos. Much of the route is through woodlands of ancient Mediterranean Holm Oak and pine plantations. Passing irrigated fields, you reach Taha de Pitres, a group of seven tiny villages dating back to Moorish times.

Day 4 Trevélez River Valley

walking @ 15km, 6 hours

Walk through the Trevélez river valley with fantastic vista points. A long but not too difficult and quite entertaining walk along a long-distance path to the highest village in the Alpujarras, claimed to be the highest in Spain.

Day 5 Choice of walks from Trevélez

walking @ 12 to 18km, 3 to 8 hours

There are three walks to choose from, including a spectacular longer walk high into the Sierra Nevada, a circular route in the beautiful area around Trevélez and a shorter walk along the Camino de Granada.

Day 6 Ascent to El Portichuelo

walking @ 16km, 5½ hours

A pleasant walking route today through a shady wood along narrow footpaths; the last section offers sweeping views. In clear weather, you can see northern Africa from the highest point, El Portichuelo.

Day 7 Acequia walk in Río Grande Valley

walking @ 10km, 3 hours

Walk a circuit through the Río Grande valley north of Bérchules following an acequia or irrigation channel, past the ruins of a 13th Century Moorish silk-washing house. Return for your final night to the hotel in Bérchules, with its swimming pool.

Day 8 Tour ends

Tour arrangements end after breakfast in Bérchules. There are two daily buses to Granada or arrange a transfer to Granada at extra cost, ask when booking. We highly recommend a night or two in Granada (at extra cost), to visit the Alhambra Palace. Please ask about cost and availability when making your booking.
