

ENGLAND – DERBYSHIRE DALES IN THE PEAK DISTRICT

8-day / 7-night one-hotel GUIDED walking tour based at Dovedale in the heart of England

Wonderful and varied walking country is to be found in the very central Derbyshire Dales, in the Peak District National Park. Discover limestone caves, lush valleys and pastures and stone-built villages. The region is very rewarding for walkers, whether through Dove Dale, with its eye-opening rock formations, or along the ancient and modern trails, looking down across the Cheshire Plain and into Wales. Charming villages, pubs and tea-shops and former industrial relics add to the landscape, including textile mills, canals and tin or slate mines.

A typical day will offer a choice of up to three walks of varying length and ascent for walkers of different abilities each day. Terrain for all levels of walks is mostly good paths over a mixture of fields & moorland, often visiting attractive stone-built villages. In the evening you may like to chat with guides and your fellow guests, relax with a drink in the bar, or take part in an optional social activity.

Walks each day are determined by the walk leaders - some possible walking routes may include:

Chatsworth and the Edges – Visit Chatsworth Park to admire Capability Brown's landscape and Chatsworth House, home to the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. The more challenging walks head high up on the moors for an exhilarating walk along the gritstone edges, then join the easier route in the estate village of Edensor before finishing at Bakewell, home of Bakewell tarts.

The Derwent Valley and Cromford – Start in the village of Crich, home to the National Tramway Museum, and finish at Arkwright's Mill, the world's first water-powered cotton mill, which helped lay the foundations of the Industrial Revolution and is now a UNESCO World Heritage site.

Manifold Valley and Ilam Park – Starting at the village of Wetton we walk above the Manifold Valley to Ilam Park and village. The medium and harder walks both ascend to Blore with its Norman church, taking in the views of the limestone plateau and Dove Dale, before descending to Ilam village, which has a grand hall and a number of alpine-style cottages. We walk through fields and along the valley back to the Peveril of the Peak.

Dovedale – Descend Lin Dale to the famous Stepping Stones, then follow the River Dove upstream past the stunning rock formations of Dovedale. Here we may ascend to Shining Tor or follow field tracks back to the house. Some routes visit the village of Tissington, famous for its well-dressings on Ascension Day.

Dales and Villages of the Upper River Dove – Visit charming Alstonefield and the market town of Hartington, home of Stilton blue cheese. Some walkers will continue via dales and field paths to return to the house.

Robin Hood's Stride – Walks take in the rock formation known as Robin Hood's Stride, a hermit's cave, and the Bronze Age stone circle the Nine Ladies.

The Plague Village of Eyam – Explore the village of Eyam, one of the best-preserved villages of Derbyshire, which went into self-imposed quarantine when bubonic plague was brought to the village in a bolt of cloth infested with plague-ridden fleas. Then walk to Stoney Middleton with its Roman Baths and octagonal toll house, up to Eyam Moor, or along the gritstone escarpment of Stanage Edge.

On alternate weeks different walks are offered for those who want a two-week holiday at Dovedale.
