HISTORY: Built In the 10th Century, Roumegouse was owned by the Barons of Gramat. In the 14th Century, the estates of Castelnau and Gramat joined forces and Roumegouse became key in the defensive system of Hugues II de Castelnau, one of the most powerful lords of Aquitaine. Over the centuries, war was a constant presence in the region. Death and destruction was commonplace; people killed without remorse. There were violent clashes against Arabs, English, between the French themselves, Catholics and Protestants!

Roumegouse, like many other castles of the time, was destroyed and rebuilt numerous times during this tumultuous period. During the Middle Ages its position on the Way of St James, the pilgrimage route through France to Santiago in Spain dominated its history. Strategically position between Mont St. Michel, Rocamadour, Santiago de Compostela, and Rome, pilgrims going to Rome were called the "Roumieux" which is the origin of the name of Roumegouse.

In 1965 it was transformed into a hotel. Past guests have included General de Gaulle, President Pompidou, Raymond Queneau, Carole Bouquet, M/Mme François Pinault and many other artists and politicians. Today the present owners Luce and Jean-Louis Laine are the second generation to welcome you as guests.
