

IRELAND – THE DINGLE PENINSULA

8-day / 7-night SELF-GUIDED inn-to-inn coastal walks from Camp near Tralee to Cloghane

The Dingle Way is a fantastic scenic walk along Ireland's rugged west coast, the setting of many films, including Ryan's Daughter and Far and Away. This 8-day (7-night) independent inn-to-inn walking holiday begins in the village of Camp near Tralee. Walk to the fishing port of Dingle and to Sleah Head, through one of the last strongholds of the Gaelic language, taking in spectacular mountain scenery and pristine Atlantic beaches, and soaking up the atmosphere surrounding archaeological sites, ancient ogham stones and ruined Stone Age and Iron Age forts. You have a free day in the town of Dingle and there are many options on this day, including a ferry crossing to Great Blasket Island where seabirds and seals abound.

The average walking time ranges from 5 to 6.5 hours per day, at a leisurely pace with opportunities to stop in villages and places of interest along the way. Your luggage is transferred for you, so all you need to carry is a small pack with the day's supplies. Start each day with a full cooked Irish breakfast, often including soda bread, black or white pudding, fried potatoes and always strong hot tea, to fuel the day's walking.

Day 1 Arrive Camp

Plan to arrive at your first hotel in Camp, a small village located about 16km from Tralee, by mid-afternoon. We can offer a transfer to Camp from Kerry or Shannon Airport (ask for details), or Tralee is connected to many locations in Ireland, including Cork, Galway and Dublin; then from Tralee take a local bus or taxi to Camp.

Day 2 Camp to Annascaul

walking distance @ 17km (ascent 350m)

Cross the spine of the Dingle Peninsula and traverse above the wildlife sanctuary near the sand dunes of Inch Beach. Walk on green road and hilltop (with views of Lough Anascaul in its glacial valley), past fields dotted with standing stones, to the picturesque village of Annascaul, where you stay overnight.

Day 3 Annascaul to Dingle

walking distance @ 21km (ascent 410m)

Continue along a medieval road, with views of the Iveragh peninsula and mountain ranges inland, past lonely beaches and green paddocks. Your day concludes in the fishing village of Dingle which is steeped in Irish culture and music and part of the Gaeltacht, where the locals still speak in the native (Gaelic) tongue.

Day 4 Dingle

Free day

Options today include walks in the local area (notes provided), or visit some of Dingle's 52 pubs, craft shops, tea houses, book shops and restaurants. Or, spend time at a local spa, visit the Dingle Aquarium, take a boat trip to see Fungie, Dingle's resident dolphin, or travel by ferry to the remote Blasket Islands, uninhabited since 1953.

Day 5 Dingle to Dunquin

walking distance @ 19.5km (ascent 345m)

Spectacular scenery today as you walk via Ventry Beach and along the slopes of Mount Eagle to Sleah Head. This stretch is famous for its concentration of archaeological sites, including a Neolithic fort and drystone 'beehive huts' or clochan of somewhat mysterious origin. Spend the night in either Sleah Head or Dunquin.

Day 6 Dunquin to Cuas

walking distance @ 24km (ascent 70m)

The Dingle Way takes you north along the Atlantic Cliffs, passing Coumenooole Beach, location for one of the dramatic scenes of the film Ryan's Daughter via the first of the beaches of Smerwick Harbour to Cuas Village.

Day 7 Cuas to Cloghane

walking distance @ 18km (ascent 825m)

An exciting day's walk today, high on the line of a military road to the Brandon Mountain Range, then down to Brandon Bay. Good visibility and navigating ability is required for this section. Consider a stop in at the pub in Cloghane for refreshments before you are transferred back to Tralee for your last night.
